Survey Shows Wealth in Princeton Evenly Divided Between Borough and Township

When a Borough official recently characterized Township residents as rich and Borough residents as low-to-middle income, several thousand of the Township's 14,065 residents said "Hey, where do I get in line?"

And many a Borough taxpayer on Library Place just smiled quietly. (There are, for comparison purposes, 12,245 Borough residents.)

The fact is that the two Princetons, often referred to together as "the affluent suburb," share the wealth and the not-so-wealth on a fairly even basis.

Both Princetons have far and away the highest median income of any municipality in Mercer County, according to new figures assembled by the Mercer County Chamber of Commerce.

The Township is indeed ahead, with $17,717, the Borough next with $14,305. (Then Lawrence, with $13,100 and Ewing with $12,411.) Compare the Borough's figure with Trenton's $7,844 for a truer picture of just who has the low and middle-income families.

For today's Princeton resident, the myth of the rich Township probably has two broad bases. Whatever Princeton has that passes for wealthy country estates lies in the Township because that's where the land has always been. And in the building boom of the late '50s and '60s, developers sub-divided the big farms in the eastern part of the community to create Gulick Road and Shady Brook Lane and sold houses to rising young executives with New York commutation tickets in their brief-cases.

These high-salaried newcomers were more visible, in a growing community, than the older money in the older western section of the Borough. Older money, by the way, in much greater quantity than the young money in the brief-cases.

But the Township, exactly and precisely like the Borough, has a large, firm core of small, older houses on narrow lots.

As on the Borough's section of Linden Lane, so on the Township's section of Linden Lane. As on the Borough side of Leigh, so on the Township side of Leigh. As on Chestnut, so on Ewing.

Tax offices in the two municipalities don't keep a tally, and you'd have to count lots one by one on a tax map, but there are probably more of these small houses in the Township than in the Borough simply because the Township is bigger, geographically.

For example:

Four years ago, when the Township passed its current zoning ordinance, new residential zones were to encompass small lots already in existence. The new R-9, allowing lots only 40 feet wide, is an example.

Riverside School Principal Edith Francis Named Acting Superintendent by 8-0 Vote

Edith Francis, principal of Riverside School since 1970, has been named Acting Superintendent of Princeton's schools. Her annual salary will be $35,000, to be pro-rated for the term of her service.

The school board's Tuesday night vote was 8-0, Dale Madden abstaining. He did not give an explanation for his abstention.

The job of acting Riverside principal will be advertised within the Princeton school system. Mrs. Francis told the board she wants someone with principal certification, but would take a non-certified person. She explained that, since it is an interim position, she felt it would be best to fill it from within the Princeton system.

Asked why she had applied for the job of Acting Superintendent, Mrs. Francis said "It posed a challenge."

She told reporters gathered Tuesday afternoon for an early announcement of her appointment that she hoped school affairs would progress in "a more congenial manner with everyone working together, not only to continue but to improve what has gone on before."

One Application to Date. Mrs. Francis will serve until the board chooses a permanent superintendent ro replace Dr. Philip E. McPherson, who resigned in June. She said she hadn't yet decided whether to apply ior the superintendent's position.

Dietrich Meyerhofer, school board president, said February 1 was the earliest possible date for announcing a new superintendent. Only one formal application has been received, reported board secretary William Evans. The board is "still struggling," Dr. Meyerhofer said, to find the best way to go about selecting a superintendent.

Before coming to Princeton, Mrs. Francis was principal of Hunter College Elementary School, affiliated both with Hunter College and the New York City public school system. She has also been adjunct professor of teacher education at Lehman, Hunter and Queens Colleges and at Niagara University.

Mrs. Francis has been educational program coordinator and counsellor in the New York Mission Society's camps for under-privileged children, and has worked with both the Harlem YMCA and Haryou Act community service projects.

She was just re-elected first vice-president of Zeta Phi Beta Sorority, an international organization with a membership of 45,000 professionals in the education field.

Active in Numerous Ways. In Princeton, Mrs. Francis is on the Bicentennial Committee and has been active in the Witherspoon-Jackson Development Corporation and the Elizabeth Taylor Byrd Association. She is a past president of the Princeton Regional Administrators Association.

Her academic background includes the B.A. and M.A. from Hunter and an M.S. in guidance, also from Hunter. She has completed course work for a doctorate in counsellor education and supervision. She is certified by New Jersey's department of education to serve as principal and school administrator.

FUTURE IN DOUBT

For Regional Planning. "Council is not treating in a perfunctory fashion the decision to retain the regional planning board," is the way Borough Mayor Robert W. Cawley phrased it this week.

Under the state's new land use law, the Princeton Regional Planning Board could be dissolved and its two constituent parts - Borough and Township - go their separate planning ways.

At a special Council meeting called for 7:30 p.m. next Wednesday, August 11, the question will be discussed. Council will also examine the Borough's rent levelling ordinance at that session.

Council's agenda meeting will be held next Monday at 8 p.m. and the regular Council meeting on Tuesday.

"I would strongly favor retaining the regional board," Mayor Cawley continued. "Many of the Borough's needs - and housing is the most obvious - are going to have to be met in the Township."

He cited a recent head count at Princeton Community Village which showed many former Borough residents.

"The number of Borough people up there - it just leaps out at you!" the mayor exclaimed.

Similar Princeton Community Housing in the Borough "may be the last we can get," the mayor warned. "Future relief for Borough housing will just have to come in the Township. Also, in things like open space and so on, the Borough gets to have a say when there is regional planning."

COURT CASE WON

On Discriminatloo Change. In the first rental discrimination case brought since Borough and Township anti-discrimination ordinances were passed in 1970, the Joint Civil Rights Commission and a prospective tenant have won in court.

Magistrate Philip Carchman, sitting in Borough court—he is Township magistrate, also—ordered Mrs. Eugene Palumbo, 78 Clearview, to rent a duplex apartment she owns on Spruce Street to Leon Thompson.

Judge Carchman also fined Mrs. Palumbo $250 and $10 court costs, but reduced the fine to $50 when she agreed to rent the apartment to Mr. Thompson.

"We will not tolerate this kind of action in this community," Judge Carchman told Mrs. Palumbo.

The case goes back to late January when Mr. Thompson, who is black, saw the apartment advertised in TOWN TOPICS. He told the court that when he telephoned Mrs. Palumbo, she asked him to come to her Clearview home in person. It was night, he said, and without admitting him to the house, she told him the apartment had already been rented.

Mrs. Palumbo told Judge Carchman she could not tell whether Mr. Thompson was black or white.

The Joint Civil Rights Commission asked two white girls to call about the apartment. They said Mrs. Palumbo told them the duplex was available.

Asked by Judge Carchman whether she had ever rented to blacks, Mrs. Palumbo said she had not.

Trotman to Take Seat

Marvin Trotman, unanimously chosen by Borough Council's five members — all Democrats — to fill the seat of the late Murray Medvin, will be sworn in next Tuesday at 8 when Council holds its regular August meeting in Borough Hall.

When Mr. Trotman takes his seat, Council will have for the first time two black members. Joseph P. Moore is now completing his second term in office and is not running for re-election.

Mr. Trotman will hold his seat until the November elections. He will also run for the remaining one year in Mr. Medvin's term, opposing Republican Ken Randall III.

Survey on Incomes

R-9 brings up another point. People don't often realize it, but many of Princeton's black residents live in the Township, in a seamless neighborhood with the Borough's black residents, a neighborhood where close neighbors may pay their taxes to different tax collectors.

There are 1,234 black residents of the Borough, according to county figures, and 633 in the Township.

Other residential zones were blocked out in that Township ordinace four years ago. They include an R-8, for lots 50 feet wide, an R-7 for quarter-acre plots with only 60 feet frontage, and R-6 for quarter-acre plots with 85 feet frontage—split-level country.

These are the streets that wrap around the hospital—Franklin, Henry, Carnahan Place, part of Jefferson, Ewing, Linden.

The streets that encircle Shopping Center and High School—Dorann Avenue, Tee-Ar Place, Grover, Clearview, Guyot, Mt. Lucas, Terhune, Valley, upper Jefferson, Hickory, Loomis, Cuyler, Leigh, both sides of Birch, both sides of Leigh (up to John), Race.....

Since that ordinance was adopted, of course, Princeton Community Village with its 240 low-to-moderate-income families, has become integrated into the social fabric of the Township.

Moderate-low-income parts of the Township, therefore, embrace over two dozen streets and a very sizeable chunk of Township real estate.

In Six Figures. If you think of the Borough only in terms of its lower-income residents, Stuart Robson, assessor for both Princetons, says that last year Princeton real estate agents sold 14 Borough houses in the $100,000 and over bracket. That's slightly over eight percent of the Borough's 1,735 residential properties.

The percentage figure for the Township is almost exactly the same: 33 houses sold in the over-$100,000 bracket, or 10 percent of the Township's 3,309 residential properties.

In the Borough, 37 houses in the $50,000 to $75,000 range were sold—93 in the Township.

At the low end of the scale, three Borough houses in the $20,000 to $30,000 range were sold compared to only one in the Township.

If you're a Borough taxpayer, you may be interested in comparing your tax bill with the community's $1,623 average. The Township average is $2,159. Figures were obtained by Mr. Robson from the state treasurer's Division of Taxation.

Revaluation Urged. Mr. Robson, who believes both communities should undertake revaluation of properties, points out that homes at the lowest end haven't increased in value as much as the more expensive houses.

In the Township, for instance, that $20,000-$30,000 house sold at 92 percent of its true value, while the over-$100,000 houses sold at only 74.8 percent of true value.

Borough ratios are much lower. The $20,000 to $30,000 houses in the Borough sold at 56.42 percent of their true value, and houses in the $30,000 to $40,000 bracket sold at only 36 percent of their actual value.

Revaluation, Mr. Robson believes, would therefore mean that lower valued houses might not go up as steeply as higher-valued homes.

People who own commercial property in the Borough—and there are 198 commercial properties—pay an average of $6,400 a year in taxes, while owners of the Township's 93 commercial properties pay less—$6,052.

When you lump the two kinds of property together—homes and businesses—the average taxes paid in the two municipalities come closer together.

In the Borough, where there are 2,128 pieces of taxable property, the average tax is $2,079. In the Township, there are 3,986 taxable piecces and an average tax of $2,273.

Variance In Rateables. When Township Mayor Jay Bleiman says, as he recently did, that the Township is poorer than the Borough, he is referring to the formula used by the state to allocate money for schools under the thorough and efficient law.

The Borough has more rateables per school child than the Township. Ronald Novak, business administrator for the schools, calculates $182,500 in rateables behind each Borough school child and only $129,000 behind each Township child.

Mr. Novak says the figures understate the difference, if anything, because statistics used by the county include a larger number of school children than Mr. Novak thinks there really are.

What it comes down to, is that in both Borough and Township, residents are well off compared to people in other towns in the county. There are rich in both Princetons, there are poor in both Princetons. And there are a very great many, on each side of the municipal line, on the broad streets of the middle.

Township Tinkering Leads to Passage of Mini-Bike Ordinance

Township Committee members turned mechanics Monday night, taking apart the mini-bike ordinance and putting it back together again, sometimes dropping an essential bolt, discovering an odd screw and wondering what it was for, and finally agreeing to try it and see if it runs. The vote was 5-0.

As Committee member Josie Hall reminded everyone, the purpose of the ordinance is to keep Mopeds off bike paths where they could endanger pedestrians, and keep mini-bikes and the big trailbikes off public and private lands, where they do damage and are a noise hazard.

TOPICS

Of The Town

When the grease had finally settled, the ordinance turned out to include snowmobiles, too. But it excludes, as amended, motorized wheelchairs. One Township official, slightly giddy from the evening's work, said he envisioned cavalcades of motorized wheelchairs invading Township open space land.

Three amendments were incorporated into the measure. One softens the impoundment provision, declaring that police "may cause" a vehicle to be impounded. A second allows Mopeds on the shoulders of roads. The third lets in the wheelchairs.

Confiscation Questioned. Gordon Griffin, municipal attorney, protested that it seemed "strong medicine" to take property away by fiat. "You don't take away somebody's car for speeding," he pointed out.

But Abbot Low Moffat, from the Committee bench, said it wasn't enough to order kids off a piece of land. "We can stop kids by making it an economic hardship," he said. "After a time, parents won't get it out of hock any more, and the kids will quit."

Police Chief Fred Porter told Committee there were "habitual violators" who run bikes onto Township property all the time. But it's not the intent of police to impound, he explained. Violators would be given a second and third chance before impoundment.

Mr. Moffat also explained that one purpose of the ordinance is to handle the problem locally and keep kids out of juvenile court in Trenton. The court doesn't want violations of this kind anyway, he said, and it isn't the Township's intent to send someone to juvenile court. The Township's own juvenile officer would handle cases, Chief Porter said.

Shoulders Approved. It was an adult Moped rider, A.C. Barclay, 77 Adams Drive, who asked if he and his cyclist wife could ride on road shoulders. Nobody had anticipated this question. After a long discussion of shoulders and what they really were, Committee amended the ordinance so that the Barclays and others can ride road shoulders.

Corrected and amended ordinance rules appear in a box on this page.

In other business, Committee passed, 4-0, an ordinance allowing non-profit organizations to hold target shoots. Margaret Broadwater abstained. She had been absent when the ordinance was introduced.

By a 3-2 vote, Committee decided against additional curb cuts for cyclists. Elizabeth Hutter said they were "a luxury we ought not even to be considering," and Mrs. Hall and Mrs. Broadwater voted with her to defeat the proposal

It takes at least four votes to pass an ordinance with money in it, so Committee waited until the late arrival of Mr. Moffat to vote on resurfacing the Johnson Park bikepath. The original surface, an experimental one, hasn't held up.

Mrs. Hall voted "no", saying she would prefer to wait and see wha the county's Rosedale Road path turns out to be.

Radio Repairs Needed. The police department's VHF radio set-up is due to deteriorate. It will cost about $4,500 to $5,000 to fix it plus $7,000 to replace the base station, reported Administrator Joseph R. Nini. He has proposed replacing the whole set-up with UHF, at a cost of $32,498 spread over a five-year period. Replacing the VHF would be $58,214, reported Mrs. Hall. She added that VHF lasts only eight to ten years, UHF for 15.

Fire Chief William Karch told Committee he'd be delighted to see a conversion to UHF because fire companies could then take the VHF equipment and instantly have the four channels they have wanted for a long time.

After Mrs. Hall and Chief Karch had made their presentations, Mr. Moffat exploded.

Such requests, he declared, should be made to the Capital Budget Committee and included in a long-range capital budget.

"It is a basic, sound, governmental procedure—a capital budgeting system," he said tartly, "to foresee things and not have them thrown at us, is the whole idea."

Long Wait. Chief Porter protested that police had waited "over 23 years" for a good communications system, and had been told by a consultant that the prsent one "is almost shot" and with normal use, will be finished in a year.

Mayor Jay Bleiman asked Mr. Nini for a written recommendation and a refinement of needs and costs.

"And we should SELL the old VHF equipment to the fire companies," Mr. Moffat added, "so the Borough will have to pay its share."

Committee was introduced to Barbara Lee Saldick, new court clerk for the municipality.

Do's and Don't's for Use of Mini-Bikes

Here are the rules in the Township's "mini-bike" ordinance:

- You can't ride a Moped, mini-bike or motorcycle on somebody else's property without written permission of the owner. If you do, police can order you to remove it, and may, at their discretion, impound it in a local garage. You would have to pay the towing charge to get it back.
- You can however, take your mini-bike or motorcycle into somebody's driveway or onto a parking lot without the owner's consent.
- But you can't ride a Moped into a driveway or onto a parking lot without consent. What you do in this situation, is pedal, without using your motor.
- Your parents can be given a summons, by the way. You can't be given a summons if you're under 18.
- If you make a deal with a private property-owner, you can ride on that property, but the permission must be in writing, and you must keep the permission note on you all the time. "...But the owner said I could and I left the note at home," won't do.
- You can't ride on public Township property, either. This means open space lands, parks and so on. The police can impound in the same way, if they feel it's wise. And the Township won't give you permission, as a private owner might.
- The state doesn't allow any unregistered vehicles to travel the roads except Mopeds. A Moped can be ridden on any road except a "primary" road. The state has never defined "primary."
- You can't ride in such a way as to produce "loud, unnecessary or unusual noise" so pay attention to your muffler.
- The ordinance doesn't apply to lawn-mowers or any kind of vehicle "engaged in agricultural or horticultural work."

Hudibras
Time . . . and Again
The Hudibras Tavern was among the best known inns in Princeton in the eighteenth and nineteenth centuries. Built around 1760, it was named for the self-styled knight Sir Hudibras in the then popular poem published in London in 1663 by Samuel Butler. A 1765 newspaper advertisement described Hudibras as "...esteem'd by all Gendemen acquainted with the Road to be the best Stand between New York and Philadelphia."
A new Hudibras is coming to historic Princeton. Across the thoroughfare from its "esteem'd" predecessor, the new Hudibras will evoke the old, but with a modern touch of informal dining and entertainment. Local clientele and travelers are invited to relax in its lounge and dining room.

BOROUGH TO ACT

In Township Court Case. The Borough has decided to "intervene" in the court action undertaken by the Township in connection with the school cost phase-in, Borough Mayor Robert W. Cawley announced this week.

The Township's case, along with West Windsor's, is scheduled to be heard in Superior Court Monday, August 16.

As an intervenor, Mayor Cawley explained, the Borough will aimply have the opportunity to present briefs and legal argumenta independent of the major protagonists. The Borough's attorney will be Robert Wilentz, who has been representing a group of towns seeking to obtain relief from the state law changing the method of school financing.

The relief the Borough and other towns got, was the five-year phase-in law. That law provides a five year period for the complete switch from sharing school costs on a per-pupil basis – as Borough and Township have been doing – to sharing them on a rateables basia.

It ia this phase-in law which the Township and West Windsor are challenging. Mayor Jay Bleiman has estimated that it will cost Township Taxpayers $1 million over the five-year period. The Township claims, in its court action, that the phase-in law is unconstitutional. The Township attorney, David Goldberg, names various state bodies and officials in the complaint. The Borough is not named.

Mayor Cawley thinks his municipality – and Plainsboro, which is in a parallel situation in the West Windsor-Plainsboro regional school system – have a good case. "We feel the Borough's interests are vitally at stake," he said this week, repeating his statement of last week that he thinks the Borough will win.

Off and Running

August means
We go away
To play until
It's Labor Day

Those who have saved August for their vacation have so far had nothing to regret, weather-wise Dry, cool weather arrived just before dawn on the first day of the month, and is expected to stay with us throughout the balance of the week at least

Surprisingly, mean temperature for July was a shade below normal--a real rarity in central New Jersey Less welcome is the lack of rain--total precipitation for the past month was less than half of normal Parched earth is apparent in many places, and no relief is currently in sight

ANYTHING GOES

With Whimsical Burglars. The tastes and interests of Princeton's burglars are apparently no less diverse than those of the rest of the community. Among the items reported stolen in the past week are a wrought iron deer, a skindiver's watch, $10 worth of groceries, and several bottles of good Scotch whiskey.

The deer, a piece of sculpture standing about 3½ feet high, was stolen from the backyard of Joyce Panitz' house at 125 Huo Road. She reported to Township police that she hard noises outside the house between 1 and 2 late Friday night.

When she went out Saturday morning she discovered the deer, valued at $100, missing, and her house splattered with mud.

The skindiver's watch and an alligator wallet were stolen from a Wiggins Street apartment sometime between Friday night and Saturday morning. the wallet, minus the cash it contained, was later found in the Princeton Cemetery.

At about 3:45 Saturday afternoon a Kingston woman left a shopping bag full of groceries, for which she had just paid $10, outside Cox's Store on Nassau Street. She went inside to make a purchase, walked out seconds later, and found her food gone.

Some thieves were just thirsty. James Marson, 101 Westerly Road, returned to his home about 10 p.m. July 28, found the garage door and door leading to the kitchen open. All that was missing were two quarts of Scotch, one of bourbon and one of vodka. Patrolman John Clausen of the Township investigated.

Heavy Drinker. Earlier that same day, a man in his early 20s walked into Community Liquors, 23 Witherspoon Street, placed two half-gallon bottles of whiskey, valued at $40.84, into a shopping bag and walked out without paying. Borough police were unable to apprehend him.

When Patricia A. Seeley, 146 Linden Lane, turned in for night on July 27, she left her purse containing $50 in cash on a table next to a front window. The next morning the purse was gone. The screen covering the window had been pushed in and a stepladder was against the house, next to the window.

Wallets and watches continued to be popular items on the thieves' lists. A Spruce Street resident visitng the social lounge at the Graduate College last week placed his $150 watch on a table, walked away for a few seconds, and discovered the watch missing when he returned.

A Township resident left her belongings in the women's locker room at Springdale Golf Club from 1 to 2:30 last Friday. When she came back, the wallet and $6 in cash were gone.

Bikes, Too. An employee at Zinder's on Nassau Street left her pocketbook and wallet in a back room at the store at 9:45 Saturday morning. She returned at 1 p.m. The wallet, containing $15 in cash, had been taken. The employee said she saw no one enter the room in that perod.

Summertime is always good for bike thefts. One was taken right off the showroom floor at Tiger Auto, 24 Witherspoon, sometime between Thursday afternoon and Friday morning. The thief may have thought he was getting a new bike but he didn't. The 10-speed had been left there for repairs. It was valued at $160.

A John Street resident reported Saturday that he and a friend had parked their 10-speed bicycles, one worth $100, the other $75, for several hours that afternoon behind a house on Witherspoon Street. Both bikes were stolen.

And a motorized bicycle, or moped, was taken from the front porch of a Clay Street residence sometime between 3:15 and 6:30 Monday morning. The orange moped had been chained to an iron column sùpporting the porch, but the thief or thieves apparently cut through the chain.

Stereos, Tapes, and CB. The season for electronic equipment runs year 'round. A Leigh Avenue resident reported to Borough police that sometime between the afternoon of July 26 and the moring of the 27th someone had broken a window and removed a stereo receiver. Value: $150.

A Robert Road resident reported that between 11 Saturday night and 6 Sunday morning a $150 AM-FM cassette tape player was stolen from under the front seat of his son's car, which was parked in the driveway. Police said the car had been left unlocked.

A FitzRandolph Road resident, who had parked her car on the street Monday, returned at 4 o'clock and discovered that the vent window on the driver's side had been forced open. The citizens' band radio was stolen. That was the week's only report of a stolen CB radio. "A big ten-four to that," as the CB enthusiasts would say.

20-YEAR-OLD CHARGED

With Public Lewdness. A 20-year-old man from Convent Sation, employed at a Nassau Street business establishment, was arrested by Borough police July 28, and charged with exposing himself to a 16-year-old girl.

Police said the girl told them that she went to the store to apply for a job and that the man took her to a second floor room, where he said the applications were kept, once there, police said, he allegedly exposed himself. The man was released after posting 10 percent of $500 bail.

Patrolman Gerald Patterson was the arresting officer.

12 SPEEDERS FINED

In Borough Court. A dozen Princeton area residents charged with sppeding were fined Mondy night by Judge Philip Carchman.

The judge also levied a $25 fine and ordered a driver's examination for Raymond Miller, 51 Wilson Road, who had been charged with violating a stop sign. Margaret Beller, 13 Campbelton Circle, paid a $25 fine for careless driving. Charles F. Littlewood, 5403 Fox Run Drive, Plainsboro, was charged with running a red light and fined $15.

Speeding violators and their fines included Tracey Wilson, E-37 Tupelow Road, $15; Harold W. Phox, 79 Dempsey Avenue, $19; Theodore Perna, 144 Terhune Road, $16; Benjamin Trani, Bedle Street, Belle Mead, $15; Janet Steinberg, 133 West Broad Street, Hopewell, $17; and Mary A. Ferguson, 103 Cuyler Road, $25.

Also Kirk F. Roth, 237 Hamilton Avenue, $25; Francis Ayres, 40 West State Street, Pennington, $25; Ruth M. Stauffer, 192 Brookstone Drive, $25; June C. Gulick, Box 135, $25; Iris Shapiro, 25 Brookstone Drive, $15; and Carol Horowitz, 665 Snowden Lane, $17.

COMING ATTRACTION: The Freedom Train, a red, white and blue steam-powered documentary of 200 years of American history, will be on view August 24-26 in New Brunswick and August 30-September 1 on a spur line in Cedwaleder Park in Trenton. Ross Rowland, 35-year old Wall Street commodities broker on leave of absence who is the founder and engineer of the train, is shown at the left with the crew of one of the two giant locomotives that is pulling it to each of the 48 contiguous states in a two-year celebration of the Bicentennial.

American Freedom Train of 25 Cars Scheduled To Make Two Stops Near Here at End of August

A visit to the American Freedom Train is a moving experience—in more ways than one. A unique moving walkway serves as a countermeasure to long waiting lines.

In 1947, people waited four abreast in lines that stretched 15 city blocks to see a similar train. Although there were only three exhibit cars, the train could only accomodate 640 persons per hour. With the moving walkway, the Freedom Train more than doubles that hourly rate but waits in some cities have still exceeded three hours.

Visitors to the train quickly learn that there is little time to browse. The train, coming to New Brunswick August 24 to 26 and to Trenton for three days, starting August 30, is no museum, but a kaleidescope of sights and sounds dramatically illustrating the spirit of American achievement.

It will be open for viewing Monday, 6 p.m. to 10 p.m.; Tuesday, 8 a.m. to 10 p.m., and Wednesday, 8 a.m. to 10 p.m. Children under 3 are admitted free. Admission is $1 for children 4 to 12 and for senior citizens 65 and older. All others are $2.

Aisles Are Narrow. The moving walkway concept was devised to control the traffic flow and to allow more people to share the portrayal spanning 200 years of the nation's growth and achievement. Since the aisles are only 27 inches wide, any person stopping too long at any point would hold up the entire line.

The walkway takes visitors through each of the 10 exhibit cars where they are caught up in the color, adventure and excitement of various facets of American life starting with the Revolution and continuing through exploration, culture, technological progress, labor and professions, sports, the arts and crisis.

Priceless documents, art treasures and memorabilia gathered from some 200 historical societies, museums and private collectors have been placed aboard in dioramas designed to instill a feeling of pride and accomplishment.

The 25-car train is powered by a 425-ton "iron horse" of the golden age of railroading. The massive 80-inch high drivers fascinate youngsters and provide a nostalgia trip for those who remember this era of the past.

The privately-sponsored Freedom Train is traveling to more than 90 cities in 48 states during its 21-month journey which ends in Miami in December. During that period, it will have come within an hour's drive of 90 percent of the nation's population.

CAR BATTERY STOLEN

Cables Cut on Another. Carmen Stefanelli, proprietor of the service station and rental car agency at 163 Bayard Lane, reported last week the theft of a battery from one of the rental cars that had been parked behind his station. The value was set at $45.

Mrs. E. J. Spencer of 213 Moore Street reported to Township Police that when she was unable to start her car on the morning of July 27, she discovered that the cables leading to the battery had been cut. The battery itself was not taken from the car, which had been parked in her garage.

PAPER DRIVE PLANNED

By Franklin Band Parents. The Franklin High School Band Parents Association will hold their monthly paper drive on Friday, August 13, after 6 p.m. with curbside pick-up of newspapers, bundled or placed in brown bags, in the predesignated PBA areas.

Magazines, computer cards and print-outs without carbon paper are also welcome. Paper may be brought to Franklin High School parking lot on Saturday, August 14, from 9 until noon. There will be no curbside pickup in Griggstown this month.

Township Mayor Hopes a Great Adventure Will Lead to Gold

"It's a competition between towns," said Township Mayor Jay Bleiman eagerly, "you form a six-member team....."

"I just got a bad back," said Administrator Joseph R. Nini firmly.

"It's the Great Adventure and Almost-Anything-Goes Roadshow Town Competition, at Great Adventure, logically. West Windsor against Princeton Township, East Windsor against—well, you know.

"Buy an $8.50 ticket and you're eligible to be on the team. Members are drawn by the Mayor from a goldfish bowl. The team competes with three other towns picked at random, and winners move along from a starting date of September 7.

The Township — or any town — gets $1 for every $8.50 ticket purchased. Mayor Bleiman said he'd figured out it would cost everybody in the big Township rooting section $21.50 to see the Township move straight ahead through to the finish and, of course, victory. Towns can win $500, $1,000, $5,000.

To win, you play various games. Mayor Bleiman had a particular gleam for games mayors are allowed to play: "Rescue Fay Wray from the Empire State Building" or "Saved From the Hurricane."

Committee, not quite so exhilirated as Mayor Bleiman, decided — and he agreed — to let the Jaycees and Recreation Director Donald Barr work it all out.

BURGLARIES THWARTED

Twice in Township. A burglar who attempted to enter the home of Margaret Rampona of 522 Mercer Road last Friday morning had second thoughts.

Township police reported that the woman left her home at 9 and when she returned about two and a half hours later she discovered a broken window pane next to the lock on the kitchen door. Damage inside the house, including torn curtains and furniture knocked over, was caused not be the would-be burglar but by the woman's dog as it drove the intruder away.

"The perpetrator, when confronted by the dog, apparently elected not to enter the premises," stated Patrolman Renn Kaminski in his report. The dog was a Doberman pinscher.

In another incident, which occurred the night before, an attempted burglary was foiled by Armoux Estime of 54 Birch Avenue. He reported that at about 11:45, as he and his wife were preparing for bed, they heard a prying sound on a window on the side of his house, adjacent to the driveway.

Mr. Estime went to investigate, discovered both the screen and window pried open, and heard someone scampering down his driveway. Patrolman James Vandermark investigated.

TAPE DECK SNATCHED

From Parked Truck. David A. Bramley, 42 Mulberry Row, reported the theft of a stereo tape deck and two twin truck antennas from his truck while it was parked behind his house on the night of July 28. The burglar forced open a window to get to the tape deck.

The equipment stolen was valued at $200. Township Patrolman Howard Sweeney investigated.

JUNCTION MAN NAMED

United Way Chairman. Richard W. Barlow, director of manufacturing at IBM's Dayton facility, has been named campaign chairman for the United Way of Central Jersey. He lives with his wife and three children at 2 Birchwood Court, Princeton Junction.

Mr. Barlow, last year's campaign vice-chairman and head of the major firms division, said that the 1976-77 campaign has "set goals and recruited volunteers based upon an analysis of the past five campaigns, the economic outlook, giving potential, and a long look at the needs of Central Jersey. The campaign structure we've developed allows for recognition of every volunteer and encourages an immediate reporting system. I feel it is essential for us to know how we're doing while we're doing it, and to keep the public informed."

The United Way of Central Jersey supports more than 100 human care programs through 23 local and seven national agencies.

Mr. Barlow will be working on this year's campaign with Graham M. Brush, Jr., the vice president for fund raising. Mr. Brush, director of national resources for Johnson and Johnson, is last year's United Way campaign chairman.

Mr. Barlow has been active in the United Way since moving to Central Jersey in 1974.

Gamble with Two-Character Play Pays Off Handsomely for Intime

HOLDING DOWN THE SEESAW: Anne Louise Hoffman is at one end of the seesaw in the comedy, "Two for the Seesaw," now playing Murray Theatre in Summer Intime's drama schedule.

Two-character plays are rare, usually for a good reason. It is risky to expect an audience to stay interested in just two people for three whole acts.

Summer Intime took this risk in choosing "Two for the Seesaw," by William Gibson, for its current offering at Murray Theatre. It is a long play, and it has just two characters.

Miss Hoffmann has been seen on Princeton stages most often in comic parts. Her underlying capacity for humor is actually a source of strength in her serious scenes. Furthermore her emotional outbursts are the more effective because her usual style is to underplay.

In fact some of her most eloquent moments are when

News Of The THEATRES

To come to the point quickly, the gamble has paid off handsomely. With veteran actors Anne Louise Hoffmann and Jamie Horton at the top of their form, with excellent direction by newcomer Kimothy Cruse, and with a marvelously down-to-earth set by Richard Ferrugio, "Two for the Seesaw" has what it takes to be a hit. Mr. Gibson's writing helps, but for the most part this is a triumph of acting and direction.

The story, briefly, is of an eight-months' love affair between a young lawyer, trying to make it on his own in New York after having fled too much security and an over-doting wife back in Nebraska, and a Jewish girl from the city with ambitions as a dancer but barely able to support herself by dressmaking. Loneliness brings them together, while differences in background and values keep intruding, so that their life together is a veritable up-and-down seesaw.

Mr. Gibson's contribution to the evening is twofold: the creation of a pair of characters with whom we can readily empathize, though one of the two seems more consistently drawn than the other; and dialogue that sparkles with the fun of contrasting mid-western-intellectual and Bronx-untutored styles, and is always authentic.

Outstanding Performances. What most viewers will carry away from this production is delight in the outstanding performances of Miss Hoffmann as Gittel Mosca and of Mr. Horton as Jerry Ryan. Not only do we not get tired of them, but we care more about them from scene to scene; and though most will agree that the ending is right, we nevertheless feel regret that it could not be otherwise.

SHYLOCK AND PORTIA: Shakespeare's "Merchant of Venice" will be performed this weekend at the Open Air Theatre, Washington Crossing, in the production from the Shakespeare '70 troupe. Here are Marvin W. Stafford as Shylock and Colleen Smith as Portia.

she is listening, the changes of expression on her face speaking clearer than words. In her hands Gittel is the tenderly tough, impractical, generous, ingenuous creature that the playwright intended. A lovely performance.

Mr. Horton's task is a little harder, for the motives that move Jerry Ryan are complex and not always clear. Mixed up in loyalties to himself, to Gittel, and to his distant wife, he is not always -- as he himself recognizes – exactly admirable. Yet he is attractive and sympathetic, and Mr. Horton brings both these qualities to the part with skill and vigor.

Title Sustained. Very much tied in with these two fine performances is the director, Mr. Cruse. In his hands the play constantly moves, both physically and emotionally. The sense of the seesaw is always there, but naturally, not mechanically.

Major credit should go to the scene designer and all technicians, for the background, the wealth of authentic props, the proper synchronization of lighting and telephone cues are as necessary to the truth of the play as are the doings of the actors. Mr. Ferrugio has given us two East Side New York interiors on the same stage, the man's flat located behind and elevated a few feet above the girl's, so that action can take place in either one or in both at the same time.

"Two for the Seesaw" will be presented again this Thursday through Sunday, August 5-8, at 8:30. For reservations, the phone number is 452-8181.

"PICNIC"

At Intime. A seasonal title if ever there was one, "Picnic" will close the summer season for Summer Intime with performances scheduled for next weekend - August 12, 13, 14 and 15 - and the following weekend, August 19, 20, 21 and 22, all in Murray Theatre at 8:30 p.m.

Mitchell Ivers will direct William Inge's summer romance, which will feature Georgine Freedman and Anne Sheldon. Others in the cast will be Patricia Gorman, Winnie Holzman, Jamie Horton, Richard Ferrugio, Kimberly Myers and Joseph Harbeson.

"Picnic," which won a Pulitzer prize, tells about a mother (Georgine Freedman) and her two daughters (Patricia Gorman and Winnie Holzman) and the effect upon them of a young drifter (Jamie Horton) who wanders into their small town.

SHAKESPEARE....

In Open Air Theatre. "The Merchant of Venice," in a production featuring rear-screen projected scenery, will play the Open Air Theatre, Washington Crossing, from Wednesday through Saturday this week at 8:30 p.m. Rain date this Sunday, August 8 for any performance rained out.

This production comes from Shakespeare '70, a non-profit corporation funded in part by the New Jersey Council on the Arts. This is the group's seventh season at the Open Air Theatre.

The rear-screen projected scenery was developed by Gerald E. Guarnieri,

BOYCHOIR TO SING

At End of European Tour. The Columbus Boychoir of Princeton, returning from a three-week concert tour of Europe, will provide an American encore of its trip at Alexander Hall on the Princeton University campus Wednesday evening, August 11, at 7:30. A reception to meet the boys will follow.

No tickets are necessary but a freewill donation of $3 at the door is requested. The program will be hosted by Herbert W. Hobler, President of the Nassau Broadcasting Company, vice-president of the school who accompanied the choir on the tour.

European audiences gave standing ovations and encores to this group of 26 boys ages 11 to 14. A whole town turned out in Wolfratshausen, Germany, south of Munich.

They next performed in Zurich, Switzerland, and then the following evening at a church in Lugano, Switzerland. Following two Sunday morning masses at different churches, the choir, which sings in English, Latin, German and Italian, went to Rome.

There they performed at the Church of St. Agostino to a packed audience including many Americans and the following day they sang in the middle of 10,000 people from all over the world at the Vatican during a papal audience. That evening they gave a concert outdoors on the famous Spanish steps.

Travelling by bus and accompanied by Donald Hansen, choir director and by four staff members, they visited Florence and Venice and spent a day and night at the summer home of the Vienna Boys Choir at Sekirn in southern Austria. The high regard for the Columbus Boychoir is indicated by the fact they are the only choir invited to visit the Vienna Boys Choir.

During the final week of the tour, the Boychoir was scheduled to visit Vienna and Salzburg, Austria, and Regensburg and Frankfurt, Germany. They are due to arrive in New York late Tuesday and will leave for summer vacation after their European Encore Concert in Alexander Hall.

FUN FOR BUFFS

Films, from Intime. Summer Intime's classic film series reels on its way this coming week with Peter Ustinov, Jimmy Stewart, Gene Kelly and Judy Garland, but not all at once. Films are screened at 7:30 p.m. in McCormick Art Museum behind Murray Theatre. The museum is air-conditioned.

"Viva Max," with Ustinov as a mad Mexican general, is Monday night's feature.

"Anatomy of a Murder" stars Jimmy Stewart and Lee Remick in Otto Preminger's film. It's Tuesday's offering.

"For Me and My Gal" has Gene Kelly and Judy Garland dancing their hearts out for Busby Berkeley. See it on Wednesday.

ERIC LAWRENCEVILLE

Gator. Burt Reynolds makes his directorial bow in this film, a replay of his "White Lightning" role as a vengeance-bound moonshiner intent on bringing a corrupt political machine in a small southern town to justice.

PRINCE

Harry and Walter Go To New York. James Caan and Elliott Gould play two good-natured but bumbling vaudevillians who've always dreamed of making the big time in this unabashedly silly, but rather likeable farce. They finally do in turn-of-the-century New York as -- safecrackers.

The jokes and pratfalls are delivered with no more grace than a fairground Punch and Judy show but delivered nonetheless. Caan and Gould pull out all the stops and although virtually everyone connected with the film -- except perhaps Michael Caine as a dry and urbane gentleman thief -- ends up working a trifle too hard for laughs, there are more than enough genuine, low-level chuckles along the way.

Caan and Gould are first rate but Diane Keaton as a zealous proletariat newspaper woman again confirms her status as one of the more original comic talents on the screen today and Caine nearly steals the show in his brief appearance as Caan's and Gould's Oxford-educated criminal nemesis.

MONTGOMERY

The Exorcist. The film version of William Peter Blatty's best-selling novel has returned. Those who appreciate good acting will enjoy the powerful performances of Ellen Burstyn, Jason Miller, Max von Sydow, and Linda Blair, who plays the 12-year-old girl possessed by the devil.

Those who do not appreciate graphic and visceral portrayals of physical and psychic horrors may find this film too much to bear.

Ominous but subtle symbolism at the beginning of the film provides forewarning of the horrors to come. Those erupt at a cocktail party in Georgetown, when Linda Blair, playing the daughter of Miss Burstyn, interrupts the pleasant banter, curses a priest, and urinates on the carpet. That is only the beginning - a fraction of the beginning.

Jason Miller plays the tortured young priest who finally succumbs to the mother's pleas to investigate the possession and then request permission from the archbishop to attempt to exorcise the evil spirits. Much of the film's success is attributed to the mind-boggling special effects of Marcel Vercoutere.

IT'S NEW To Us

PILLOW FURNITURE

At New Kingston Store.

"I've been a nut on soft furniture for years. In fact, I probably owned the first bean bag chair in Connecticut," said Paul Thomson. Now he has gone a large step further and surrounded himself with a line of pillow furniture in a new Kingston store.

Opened just last week, Wond 'n Hue offers five different pieces of this furniture, all of which is constructed of kiln-dried pine finished in a medium brown.

The line starts with a two-pillow chair and growa to a nine-pillow L-shaped couch called "The Environment." In between is a loveseat, a standard size six-pillow couch and a lounge that can easily double as a bed – either aleep right on the pillows or add a four-inch foam mattress.

Prices range from $109 to $429, but the pillows are also sold separately at $25 each. They, of course, make great extra floor seats, but two of them together also moke a casual choir and Mr. Thomson suggests this if your finances are limited.

One particularly nice feature about this furniture is that you can personalize it. No matter which pieces you huy, all the pillows are the same size and therefore can be arranged any way you find most comfortable.

Also with the exception of the chair, each piece comes with two small snack tables that ottach right onto the sides. However, if you prefer larger tables this company does make square and rectangular ones to match its furniture, $79 and $129 respectively.

The pillows are covered in mnny different fabrics, most of which are in earth tones because Mr. Thomson feels they go best with the brown of the furniture. There is a patchwork design, a geometric, a Polynesian one, a brown leaf print, a bold peacock pattern, a black and white spaceman print and solid corduroys in green, brown or blue.

A few of these such as the Polynesian and patchwork have a special coating that makes the fabric self-healing. To demonstrate this Mr. Thomson pushed a pen into the fabric making a large hole which he then quickly rubbed until all the fibers had returned to their proper positions -- quite incredible.

You'll also find here a selection of artworks and hand-crafted wooden mirrors. The mirrors are somewhat abstract and a lot of fun. With a little imagination they can look like a 1930's radio, a reindeer, or even a mirror-man called Horace who will stand agreeably wherever you place him, $30 to $55.

Located at 42 Main Street in Kingston, next to Good Time Charley's, Wood 'n Hue has a charming display room with large windows, a white brick wall and a brown trellis dividing the front and rear areas. Its hours are 11 to 9 Monday through Saturday.

CHINA STORE OPENS

At 20 Nassau. Recently moved to Princeton is Laurence Lynn, Ltd., a store specializing in fine china, particularly limited edition collector's plates.

According to owner Len Markowitz, who has been involved in this business for the last six years in Pennsylvania, the current trend in these plates is to feature a mother and child by a famous American woman artist.

For instance, Gorham has an Irene Spencer plate which this year depicts a mother and child from a prairie family, $40. Then in the fall Rosenthal is issuing a plate by Edna Hibel, and Mr. Markowitz said that he is almost sold out of this one in spite of the fact that it costs $120.

The "hottest" plate on the market, however, is Royal Bayreuth's Indian mother and child painted by Leo Jansen, $52.60.

PROUD AS A PEACOCK. This loveseat, part of a collection of pillow furniture at Wood 'n Hue, comes with four large pillows covered in a colorful bold fabric called Peacock.

Also popular are the Norman Rockwell plates, various Christmas ones, and a group that features Raggedy Ann, Disney or Peanuts characters. While the last ones may appear to be for children, don't be fooled. The original Raggedy Ann plate issued for Mother's Day a few years ago now costs $35, having been $13.

In addition to plates, Norman Rockwell's famous pictures have also been adapted to figurines. Issued by Gorham, they are as delightful as ever with one showing a forlorn boy holding a sick dog at the vet's and another in which two girls are exclaiming over a lost tooth, $25 and $30.

Hummel, Bing and Grondahl. Other figurines are by Hummel, Bing & Grondahl on special order and Lladro. From this last is a charming sleep collection of slender whimsical children in Lladro's popular matte finish, about $20 for the single figures.

Laurence Lynn also carries china place settings (five pieces) in a wide price range. From Johnson Brothers ther is a plain white with a fluted rim at $7 or a striking bright yellow octagonal one, $13.75. Then by Noritake there are some contemporary patterns such as one with dusty brown and deep blue lines against a grey background, $19.95.

Other choices are by Royal Worcester, Bing & Grondahl and Wedgewood which has an old pattern that happens to be just right for this year. This is

Then to complete each setting Mr. Markowitz has included stemware and other crystal items. Sweden's finest is by Orrefors and our favorite here was a set of glasses with a spiral design inside the smooth stem, $10 each.

We also liked the extremely tall long-stemmed glasses by Svend Jensen of Denmark. This glassware is very unique with its large grand appearance, and yet it is not expensive, about $6 each. Other designs are by Stuart Crystal and Gallway Crystal.

While these are the basics here, there are many gift items too from around the world. These include India, the Orient, Holland with its Delft china, Royal Limoges from France, Royal Worcester's porcelain oven-to-table ware, Hampshire pewter, and Incolay stone jewelry boxes from California.

Plainsboro Resident, Geologist at Rutgers, Uses New Theory To Name Central America as Site of Next Major Earthquake

CLUE TO EARTHQUAKES: Rutgers College geologist Michael J. Carr of Plainsboro (right), who has developed a new theory on the origin of earthquakes in Central America, holds volcanic rocks as he examines map of El Salvador with Christine Dwyer and Gregg Fairbrothers, graduate geology students. The trio returned recently from El Salvador with 70 volcanic rocks, which will be studied to learn more about the relationship of volcanoes to earthquakes and the geology of the region.

Guatemalans were jolted out of bed at 3:02 a.m. last February 4 by a terrifying earthquake that tore their country apart along the Motagua fault, killing 23,000 persons, injuring many tens of thousands and leaving more than a million homeless. The initial 30-second shock registered 7.5 on the Richter scale (compared with the San Francisco earthquake in 1906, recorded at 8.2) and reportedly was felt along a 2,000-mile belt between Mexico and Costa Rica.

What's the likelihood of quakes this size striking again soon in Central America?

"Very good," says Dr. Michael J. Carr, 29, an assistant professor of geology at Rutgers College, "but no one knows how soon." A specialist in earthquakes and volcanoes, Dr. Carr is recently back from collecting volcanic rocks in El Salvador. He lives on Deer Creek Drive, Plainsboro.

In fact, in a scientific paper he has just completed, he pinpoints the countries of El Salvador and Costa Rica as "the next sites for very large earthquakes."

This forecast is based both on hard, historic data and, perhaps more important, on how the data fits into a newly refined concept developed by Dr. Carr and a Dartmouth College colleague of how a large number of earthquakes and volcanoes are distributed in Central America and in some other areas of the world.

Like a Moving Slab. To understand the historical record and the new theory on Central American quakes, however, requires a familiarity with plate tectonics, a descriptive view held by geologists and other scientists that the earth's surface is made up of huge, moving slabs or plates.

In different parts of the world, according to Prof. Carr, these plates, measuring about 45 to 100 miles in thickness, either slide past each other, spread apart or converge with one plate underthrusting the other. Earthquakes occur at the edges of the plates when they rub past each other or interact in some other fashion.

In Central America, earthquakes result from the interaction of three major plates – the Cocos plate, beneath the Pacific Ocean; the Caribbean plate, which includes most of Central America, and the North American plate. The disastrous Guatemalan quake represented a movement of the Caribbean and North American plates past each other along the Motagua fault, rupturing the country down the middle.

A similar plate interaction - fraught with enormous danger to life and property - is occurring in California where the Pacific plate is moving past the American plate along the San Andreas fault in a region between Los Angeles and San Francisco. The great majority of the quakes in Central America, however, stem from the convergence of the Cocos and Caribbean plates at the Middle America trench about 100 miles off the western coast of Central America. The convergence results in the Cocos plate underthrusting or sliding beneath the Caribbean plate at great depth.

Theory Explained. This phenomenon, established in 1969 by the outstanding American seismologists Prof. Peter Molnar of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology and Prof. Lynn Sykes of Columbia, now has been further refined by Profs. Carr and Richard Stoiber of Dartmouth. "We've developed a theory," said Prof. Carr, "that island arcs, such as Central America, are broken by transverse faults into segments about 100 to 200 kilometers long."

These segments, he said, provide "a new framework" from which to approach geologic problems relating to island arcs. "The segmentation," he added, "emphasizes often neglected transverse faults." In Central America, he pointed out, "several earthquakes, including the Managua, Nicaragua, quake of 1972, have occurred in this kind of fault."

The Managua tremor, which Prof. Carr considers among the smaller, more shallow quakes, through destructive enough to have leveled the city, and those which he characterizes as "great earthquakes" that spread across segments have initiated near or on transverse faults or breaks. "So," he said, "we believe the transverse faults we emphasize, which segment arcs, enable us to predict those areas where earthquakes will occur more often."

This goes back to Prof. Carr's expectations that El Salvador and Costa Rica will be the targets for the next large quakes in Central America. "We have made estimates," said the geologist, "of where the next big earthquakes will occur on the basis of our theory of segmented arcs. In doing so, we consider each segment as a distinct unit, with a separate history and behavior.

Last Big Quake in 1850. "It turns out that both the El Salvador and central Costa Rica segments of the Central American arc have not experienced large earthquakes

The following report from Washington was written for TOWN TOPICS and other New Jersey weeklies by Sen. Harrison H. Williams, (D., N.J.)

COASTAL LANDS VITAL

Sen. Williams Issues Warning. One of our most priceless natural resources in New Jersey is our beautiful coastline. However, our coastal lands could be endangered by the significant role the New Jersey shore could play in the future development and production of oil, natural gas, and nuclear power, on and offshore.

It is my firm belief that we should not, by any means, rush into the development of any coastal energy facility without assessing its long-term environmental and economic impact.

We must recognize, for example, that construction of these facilities would almost certainly lead to population increases requiring costly new public facilities and services. Unfortunately, many local communities and the State would be hard-pressed to provide sufficient funds to pay for the impact of this development.

To order to avoid this potentially crippling situation, I sponsored legislation which would provide communities in coastal states with $1.6 billion to meet the problems of growth that might accompany the development of offshore oil and gas resources, as well as nuclear power. I am pleased to report that his measure became law last week.

Known as the Coastal Energy Impact Bill, the law authorizes Federal financial assistance to build roads, schools, hospitals, sewage systems and water purification facilities for communities on the coasts of the oceans and the Great Lakes. It would also pay for the protection of our beaches. In New Jersey, this legislation could mean millions of dollars in assistance by 1980.

The bill amends the Coastal Zone Management Act of 1972, and covers a ten-year period. It provides over this period, $800 million for an energy impact fund, $400 million for outer continental shelf formula grants, and $464 million for related research and planning.

The money will be channeled to municipalities through the State government by the Federal Office of Coastal Zone Management, and the Federal Energy Administration will contribute in the evaluation of requests from localities.

since around 1850, and, so, the probability is that they will be the next sites for them." he said.

The conclusion was reached, he said, by examining the historic record of earthquake activity and finding that most segments of the Central American arc were ruptured - that is, suffered a major earthquake - between 1898-1903, when a series of quakes swept southeast Mexico, western Guatemala, El Salvador and Nicaragua.

"This was the last time the Central American arc had really large underthrust-type earthquakes," Prof. Carr said. A half century-earlier, he noted, a similar series of quakes struck El Salvador, eastern Nicaragua and most of Costa Rica in 1847, 1850 and 1851, respectively.

Whether or not a geologic pattern is present to predict with accuracy not only where, but when, the next major underthrust-type earthquake will occur is not presently known. Prof. Carr's research may some day lead to that, but, for the time being, he is trying to construct the geology of island arcs, where he believes such earthquakes occur, and find out as much about the geology as possible.

A step in that direction are the studies he and two graduate students in geology, Christine Dwyer of Bergenfield and Gregg Fairbrothers of Bridgewater, are making this summer of the chemistry of some 70 volcanic rocks they had collected in May from a line of volcanoes in El Salvador that parallels the seacoast.

Their study, funded by the National Science Foundation, will be to "find out whether the chemistry and mineralogy of volcanic rocks within a single, well-defined segment, namely El Salvador, vary along the length of the segment," Prof. Carr said.

It is part of a larger research effort - an attempt to understand more about the origin of magma, liquid or molten rock believed to form directly beneath volcanoes at a depth of 100 to 200 kilometers; the relationship of earthquakes to volcanoes and how both fit into the picture of segmented arcs.

A BICENTENNIAL HOUSE: Maclean House, on the Princeton University campus, a national historic landmark, is considered the best-preserved Colonial house in the Middle Colonies. It has served as the residence of ten University presidents, seven deans of the faculty and one British general. Aeron Burr was the first occupant. The two sycamores in front of the house are called the "Stamp Act Trees." They were planted in 1776 to commemorate the repeal of the Stamp Act.

The bill offers coastal municioalities two specific sets of incentives. There is, for instance, the incentive of loans and loan guarantees to help communities develop the additional public facilities needed to cope with the expanding population associated with new energy exploration. And there is a clause that specifies that any offshore energy activity by petroleum, gas, or other energy company must conform to the local coastal zone management plans.

This bill is an encouraging sign for the future because it can help reconcile two issues high on our national agenda—the need for energy and the need for environmental protection. It demonstrates Congressional awareness of, and rapid response to the possible adverse effects of energy development on our Nation's coastlines.

PLAN "A" RECOMMENDED

By Sewer Consultants. The single-plant "Plan A" should be recommended by the Stony Brook Regional Sewerage Authority to the reviewing agencies, in the view of consultants Westwater, Gaston and Dunka. John Dunka, in a letter to the Authority, suggested that financial analyses give significant advantage to the single-plant plan.

The Authority will meet next Wednesday, August 11, to continue its July 27 meeting. The session will be held at 8 p.m. in Borough Hall, Princeton.

ETS PLANS SYSTEM

To Aid Colleges. During a time of spiraling tuition costs coupled with institutional budget crunches, financial aid officers at many of the nation's colleges and universities often face a bewildering set of questions when they begin to plot out their overall aid policies for the next academic year.

And their decisions can affect not only scores of college applicants, but often the financial stability of the institutions themselves.

But this fall a new computer-based system will be available from Educational Testing Service (ETS) and the College Entrance

News Of The CHURCHES

FREEDOM IS TOPIC
Of Nassau Church Sermon. Dr. Lefferts A. Loetscher who retired in 1974 after 33 years of teaching at Princeton Seminary will be the guest preacher at Nassau Presbyterian Church on Sunday at 10. His sermon will be on "Freedom."

He was professor of American Church History for 20 years and director of graduate studies from 1956-63.

Dr. Loetscher has been a member of the board of directors of the department of history of the General Assembly of the United Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A. for 25 years. church history, he is a member of the American Historical Association and a member and past president of the American Society of Church History. He is editor-in-chief of the Twentieth Century Encyclopedia of Religious Knowledge and is a contributor to numerous other encyclopedias and religious journals.

TWO PARTICIPATE
In Eucharistic Conference. The Rev. Arlo Duba, director of the chapel and director of admissions at Princeton Theological Seminary, and the Rev. Kenneth Dannenhauer, pastor of Christ Congregation on Walnut Lane, have both been invited to participate in the 41st International Eucharistic Congress this week in Philadelphia.

Dr. Duba was scheduled to read a paper on "The Eucharistic Presence of Christ" at the Ecumenical Theological Symposium on the Eucharist Wednesday. According to a brochure on this section, which was open by invitation only to Catholics and non-Catholics, the participants were expected multilaterally to explore "areas of convergence and divergence and new possibilities of the Eucharist as Presence."

On Thursday Dr. Duba will lead a discussion group in an Ecumenical Conference and Workshop at which Jan Cardinal Willebrandts of Holland and Archbishop Fulton J. Sheen will be the major speakers. This workshop is an open one and will explore the ecumenical with people of pastoral concerns.

The Rev. Mr. Dannehauer is also participating in the Ecumenical Theological Symposium as a member of the Christian Unity Committee of the American Baptist Churches, U.S.A.

Some one million people from all over the world are attending the Congress in Philadelphia many of them being housed in Princeton at Princeton Inn College. According to Dr. Duba, who has made plans to stay in Philadelphia, there are 10 busses a day which bring participants from Princeton to Philadelphia.

Begun in France in 1881, The International Eucharistic Congress stemmed from a time when there was a strong emphasis on the centrality of the Mass in the Catholic Church. The theme this year is The Eucharist and The Hungers of the Human Family.

Examination Board to help the financial aid offices make such calculations quickly and with more precision.

Called the Financial Aid Planning Model, the system uses a computer time-sharing arrangement to project the aggregate financial need and the amounts needed for various aid programs based on available information. The model is designed to give simulated answers requiring several thousands of individual calculations in a few seconds.

The results can give aid officers information about a range of factors bearing on an institution's aid policies: the amount of aid needed if tuition and fees increase, or if applicants increase, or the costs of enlarging a work-study and loan program for students, or the total financial need of a college.

Dwight Horch, who is directing the system for ETS, sees the model as an institutional need analysis service, as opposed to an individual need analysis service such as provided by the College Scholarship Service (CSS) or the Graduate and Professional School Financial Aid Service (GAPSFAS) for students applying to colleges for aid.

"Instead of projecting the need of a single student, the Financial Aid Planning Model projects the need of an entire institution, state, or university system," Horch explains.

SR. CITIZENS INVITED
To Arts Center. The Princeton Recreation Department is sponsoring a trip to the Garden State Arts Center on Wednesday, August 11 to see the exhibition "Circa 1900." All Princeton residents 60 and over are invited to attend this free program. There are only 40 tickets, so please register by calling 921-9480.

The bus will leave the Community Pool parking lot at 11:30 and will make a second stop at Lloyd Terrace at 11:40.

FULL PROGRAM PLANNED

By YMCA for Senior Citizens. The YMCA program for retired persons has a full schedule of activities, with trips, mini-vacations, and the regular Thursday noon-hour luncheon program, designed to keep people busy.

This Thursday, August 5 will be potpourri Day, combining a flea market, film program, and bingo, and boasting summer fruits and vegetables as prizes. All are asked to bring inexpensive flea market items for fun and profit, with sales going to the seller. The next Thursday, August 12, Mrs. Sharon Alexander will entertain in a concert of old favorites plus operatic selections. Seniors bring a bag lunch, with varied desserts and beverages provided.

On Thursday, August 19, the regular luncheon will give way to a day trip to Madison Square Garden for "Holiday on Ice," featuring Peggy Fleming. Day trips will continue into the fall schedule, and will include a Boardwalk Trip to Asbury Park on Tuesday, August 17, Hershey Park on August 31, Radio City Music Hall on September 14, and Pocono Fall Foliage Trip on October 12.

A fall mini-vacation trip for four days at Lake George is now taking registrations at the YMCA Conference Center at Silver Bay. Visits to the Brotherhood Winery, Fort Ticonderoga, and a Lake George Boat excursion are included on the trip scheduled to view the best of fall colors in New York state from Thursday, Sept. 29 through Sunday, October 3.

REGISTRATION BEGUN

For YMCA Kindergarten. The YMCA Kindergarten Child Care program is now receiving registrations for children (of working parents) entering Kindergarten this September.

The program, which follows the Princeton Regional School schedule provides transportation from the Princeton schools to the YMCA at 1 p.m. with a diversified program following until 5:30 p.m.

Activities incorporate aquatic and physical education programs, as well as crafts, music, and relaxed play in an informal setting. Enrollment is limited, and registration should be made by August 20.

In addition, fall nursery school for boys and girls, 3-5 years, are being received now. The nursery school offers two, three, or five morning per week enrollments, with sessions for 2½-3 year olds, three year olds, and four year olds.

A complete program book on all YMCA pre-school offerings is available by calling the YMCA, 924-4825.

REGISTRATION SET

For Voters. The League of Women Voters of the Princeton Area will sponsor voter registration on Thursday, August 12, at 2:30 to 4 at the Princeton Nursing Home, 35 Quarry street, at the McClean St. entrance.

New Jersey's First Governor Was No. 1 on List Of Rebels British Army Wanted Most to Capture

British officials held greater hatred during the Revolution for Governor William Livingston than for any other New Jerseyan. He earned that hatred far more from his words than for his sword.

The British often dispatched small raiding parties to capture him. Unsuccessful in those attempts, the Crown, in February, 1779, offered "two thousand guineas and a life pension, for that damned old rascal, Governor Livingston, delivered dead or alive on Staten Island."

Livingston responded in typically taunting fashion: "The British are as great blockheads as they are rascals for taking so much pain and running such risk to assassinate an old fellow whose place might instantly be supplied by a successor of greater ability and greater energy." The 56-year-old Livingston might have been correct about his energy in 1779; he was totally wrong about his ability.

Born of wealthy and politically powerful New York parents (his father was mayor of Albany), Livingston graduated at the head of his class at Yale in 1741 and became a lawyer in New York City.

A Child for Each State. He married Susanna French, daughter of a wealthy New Brunswick landholder, in 1742. They had 13 children: "As many children as there are states in the Union," Livingston boasted.

Many of Livingston's contemporary wealthy lawyer and landowner friends considered him much too liberal. He quarreled with his church (Dutch Reformed) because it would not hold services in English. He wrote on "Good Judges," "Passive Obedience and Non-Resistance," and in opposition to the importation of slaves.

Contemplating "the pleasure of a rural life," Livingston and his family moved to Elizabeth in 1773 to occupy newly-built (and still standing) Liberty Hall. But retirement eluded him – New Jersey sent him to the first Continental Congress.

At that time, Livingston's major passions did not include separation from England. There is ample evidence that he was replaced in the Continental Congress in the spring of 1775 for fear that he might oppose a declaration of independence. Officially, he was replaced to answer a sudden call to command the New Jersey Militia.

No Turning Back. When independence was declared and Livingston was elected the first Governor of the State of New Jersey, he embraced the fight for freedom. He wrote:

"Whoever draws his sword against his prince must throw away the scabbard. We have passed the Rubicon. We cannot recede nor should I wish we could."

Being Governor of a state where the enemy was often encamped meant constant movemeot for Livingston. The legislature relocated a dozen times and the Governor followed. Additionally, he moved his family whenever enemy action threatened.

British officials were infuriated by Livingston's many brilliant essays against them. Typical was a Livingston assessment when it was rumored that English General Clinton would be recalled to England:

"I should be very sorry to have Clinton recalled through any national resentment against him, because as fertile as that country is in the production of blockheads, I think they cannot easily send us a greater blunderbuss, unless... it should please his Majesty himself to do us the honor of a visit."

Livingston survived British threats and offers on his head. He was elected annually as Governor throughout the war and then continuously until his death in 1790. Questions of his initial coolness to independence were swept aside by his heated opposition to the British once war was declared.

High intelligence, a brilliant writing style, and a masterful way of dealing with contemporaries all were hallmarks of New Jersey's "Rebel Governor." Yet he probably is more lastingly remembered for his keen wit – as often directed at himself as at an enemy.

NEARLY 500 PRESENT

At Senior Citizens' Picnic. More than 450 senior citizens, assisted by a team of 50 volunteers, enjoyed the sunny outdoors, barbequed chicken, entertainment, sociability and door prizes at the third annual picnic given by Laundau's last week at Prospect on the Princeton University campus.

A poignant touch was provided by the attendance of 17 residents of the Princeton Nursing Home, who, although wheelchair-bound, were able to participate in the festivities. Caroline Moseley, folk singer, and Stephanie Galvano, accordianist, provided musical entertainment.

The chicken was prepared by George Marshall and home-baked cakes were supplied by West Windsor Keenagers, Soroptimists, B'nai B'rith, A.A.U.W., and NassauPresbyterian Church. Additional doorprizes were donated by Shop-Rite and Squibb.

Matthew B. Maxwell made all initial University arrangements and acted as master of ceremonies. Also contributing to the picnic's success were Leslie Vivian, the University's Director of Community and Regional Affairs; Bernie Gavin and Mrs. Mildred Scott, Food Services Department; John P. Moran, head of facilities, and the University security Department, for providing guards and parking.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

Following is the text of an open letter I have written to Councilman Martin Lombardo:

I read with some interest in last week's papers the illustrated story of your recent "fact finding" visit to three borough parks.

Although not specifically mentioned (except in the case of street lighting), I am afraid that a false impression may have been created - one that the Joint Recreation Department is not doing its job.

The Recreation Department is indeed doing its job! To set the record straight, Mr. Lombardo, are you aware that?

1) The Recreation Department maintains and equips only Community Park. All maintenance of parks and equipment in Princeton Borough is the responsibility of Borough Council, of which you are a member. The Township has a like responsibility for its parks.

2) The Borough and the Township are each responsible for purchasing the equipment in their respective parks. The Recreation Department only runs the summer programs there.

3) The Recreation Department has received no requests for lighting the John Street park. They have no jurisdiction over either the park or the street. This rests with Borough Council.

4) That when you asked for suggestions for girls' sports, that there were already the following Recreation Department programs in existence? The Women's Softball League open to anyone over 14, the Dillon basketball league open to boys and girls 11-14 (and the girls do play in this!), and softball in the playground programs. There is also a co-ed soccer league open to enthusiasts, run by volunteers but no longer publicly funded as the funds ran out.

I think that your tours of the remaining parks would be more productive if you first embarked on a fact-finding expedition to Borough Hall.

Picnic A Great Success.
To the Editor of Town Topics:

Yesterday the sun shone on Princeton. The campus served as a shady dining room for the several hundred who attended the Senior Citizen Picnic.

Some came in wheelchairs or on walkers. Blacks and whites ate together at the same tables. The food was delicious not to mention the home baked cakes served as dessert. The younger served the older and did it with flair.

I personally would like to thank all those organizations and business enterprises that contributed time, money, or gifts of merchandise to make it such a festive occasion. In particular I would like to mention the Landaus who footed the main part of the bill and whose interest in the homebound inspired us all.

To Dorothy Kreuger, chairman from the Joint Commission on Aging, who coordinated all the activities from the entertainment to the busing, my admiration. May I hope that as long as there are Senior Citizens in Princeton, there will be a picnic.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

Being that our association name was used in an article published in your paper (copy enclosed) I feel compelled to write you to clear up a few things. Evidently, the reporter who wrote the story did not make sure that all the facts were accurate.

First of all the picture accompaning the story has them pictured as being in Wichita Kansas. I'll assume that's a typo error. Mr. Bartolino is quoted as saying "he was denied to do something he loves." The implication being that the Mercer group denied him umpiring assignments. Not true. I'll be glad to give you a copy of the letter when he turned back his assignments last June.

It is also mentioned that his group has been chosen to umpire the Mid Atlantic Babe Ruth tourney next month. That's true, however they have only half the tourney. We have the other half. Among his officers listed is a Mr. Petty. The story says he worked professional baseball on a high minor league level.

If you check that out you will find Mr. Petty never worked on a high minor league level. To the best of anybody's knowledge in the Trenton area Mr. Petty never worked professional baseball at all. To back that up we have a policy in college baseball, of which I am an officer that anyone who worked pro ball does not have to take the written test to become a member.

Mr. Petty last fall took the test, if he worked pro ball why did he take the test? I believe that answer is obvious.

Finally, it's stated that half of the NBC group are state certified umpires. The article list his roster as 20 men. That means at least 10 men are certified, right, wrong again. If you check the NJSIAA roster you will find 4 men certified. They are Mr. Bartolino, Mr. Offredo, Mr. Rubino and Mr. Lindsay. Mr. Petty was dismissed last season.

I'll assume the reporter who wrote the story did so in good faith and felt it would be a good article. I enjoy seeing articles on officials groups. Enough aren't written to show the dedication and effort that goes into these groups. However, I like them as accurate as possible. I suggest in the future any reporter check out his facts before putting them in print. If he cares to contact me I'll be glad to produce evidence of the accurate facts.

Theatrical Help Sought.
To the Editor of Town Topics:

I would like to invite residents of the Princeton community to participate in a truly unique theatrical event - the production of America's first comic opera, "The Disappointment, or the Force of Credulity."

The play was written by a member of George Washington's army, and was first printed in New York in 1767. However, it was never performed during that period.

Due to the historical uniqueness of "The Disappointment," the stage properties needed to recreate the 1770's must be replicas of that era. Among the props needed are: watchman's lanterns, a large book of magic, an old iron-bound chest, pewter beer mugs, candle holders, quill pens, a pitcher and bowl, china teapot, cups and saucers, a wine decanter, tables,

THE STORY OF R.K., THE ACCOUNTANT

Written by a Princeton medical scientist, this new suspense novel gives a truly absorbing account of the world .of a developing paranoid whose inhuman, bizarre activities are described vividly and with insight. CHAIRMAN NAMED

Sword to Aid Fenwick. William H. Sword, Jr. of Princeton will serve as campaign chairman in Mercer County for U.S. Rep. Millicent Fenwick (R-Fifth District), it was announced this week by State Senator Raymond H. Bateman (R-Somerset), chairman of Mrs. Fenwick's re-election campaign.

REPUBLICAN TRIO: U.S. Rep. Millicent Fenwick (R-5th District) discusses her campaign with William H. Sword, Jr., Mercer County Campaign Manager for Mrs. Fenwick, and Somerset State Senator Raymond H. Bateman, campaign chairman.

Mr. Sword, a 1976 graduate of Princeton University with a bachelor's degree in politics, was active in Congresswoman Fenwick's successful 1974 campaign, serving as chairman of Princeton University Students for Fenwick.

"'Bill Sword's key role in this campaign typifies the increasing interest that Millicent Fenwick has attracted among young people in her efforts to improve government's response to the public's needs," Sen. Bateman said in announcing the appointment of the campaign chairman for the Mercer County portion of the Fifth Congressional District, which consists of Princeton Borough, Princeton Township and West Windsor.

"He brings a keen interest in politics and government to Mrs. Fenwick's campaign," Sen. Bateman added, noting that Mr. Sword, during a three-year leave from his studies at Princeton University, worked in the office of U.S. Rep. Victor V. Veysey (R-California) on the National Blood Banking Act of 1972, and for United World Colleges, an association of international secondary schools. Mr. Sword also wrote his thesis at Princeton about Woodrow Wilson, a former President of the United States and Governor of New Jersey.

Now employed at the Princeton-based investment banking firm of William Sword & Co., Inc., he has also served as a volunteer intern at Princeton Hospital and taught Sunday School at the Nassau Presbyterian Church.

$209,000 IS GIVEN

To University Fund. Princeton University has received a gift of $209,000 from the estate of Mrs. Emma Hartley, President William Bowen has announced. The bequest was made in honor of her late husband, Dr. Frank Hartley, a distinguished New York surgeon who graduated from Princeton in 1877.

The funds will support fellowships to encourage advanced study and promote original research in the university's Department of Chemistry. Mrs. Hartley, the former Miss Emma Allyea Burton of Boston, died November 16, 1926. The gift comes to Princeton upon the death of her life beneficiary, Miss Katherine Hyland.

Dr. Hartley was described by both "The New York Times" and the American Medical Association as the most distinguished surgeon in New York and the best authority in the country on the surgery of the brain, the thyroid gland, and the abdomen. He was credited with the first successful surgical cure of facial neuralgia. He was also an inventor of operating instruments and a prolific contributor to surgical literature. His articles were considered basic reference works and were widely translated.

The $209,000 gift from Mrs. Hartley will help meet the goals of Princeton's $125 million Development Program, of which over $110 million have been given or pledged to date.

COMPLETION DATE SET

For Living History Farm. The Mercer County Park Commission has announced that a master plan for development of the Howell Farm as a living history farm is scheduled for completion in October.

The plan is being developed by the architectural firm of Geddes, Brecher, Qualls, Cunningham of Princeton. The architects are working closely with the Howell Farm Citizens' Advisory Committee which was named by the Park Commission.

The 128-acre farm, on Pleasant Valley Road in Hopewell, was given to the Park Commission in 1974 by Mrs. Inez Howell of Pennington. At that time it was announced that it would be restored to a living history farm, complete with livestock, to reflect the period from 1920 to 1940.

I BET YOU DIDN'T KNOW

Brought to you By John Bernard

Here's an amazing oddity... There was once a big league baseball player who hit a home run EVERY time he got a hit one season!... He was Clem Labine, a Dodger pitcher... In 1955, Labine made only 3 hits all season -- but every one of those hits was a homer!

Did you know the Baltimore Colts of the National Football League accomplished something last season that had never been done before in the 56-year history of the NFL... The Colts become the first team ever to go from last place one season to first place the next... The Colts had finished last in 1974, but wound up in first place in their division in 1975, thus becoming the first NFL team to do

Here's an unusual baseball fact... Billy Herman, who was voted into major league baseball's Hall of Fame this year, was only a utility infielder on his high school team... He could never make the first team in high school - yet he was later able to make not only the majors, but eventually the Hall of Fame!

TITLE TO LAUCK

In Seniors' Golf, Gerould M. Lauck of the Princeton-Lawrenceville Road, a former member of Springdale Golf Club, won the Metropolitan Golf Association championship last week at the Canoe Brook Country Club in Summit when the triumphed in a three-way playoff.

On wet fairways over an 18-hole layout nearly 6,500 yeards long, Lauck shot a 41-43-84, to win by three strokes from Gus Manganello of White Plains and by four from Jack Dahoney of Hicksville, Long Island. The three had shot identical six-over-par 78s at Canoe Brook earlier this summer to create the triple tie.

Lauck has been a member of Bedens Brook as well as Springdale and has won a total of five club championships, three of them at Bedens Brook. A Yale alumnus, he is a 59-year old retired advertising executive.

NASSAU EASY WINNER

In Area Swim Championships. The Princeton Area Swimming and Diving Association championships ended July 30 with the accumulation of an incredible 410 points by Nassau Swim Club for a first place trophy, compared to 198 by second place Valley of Flemington and 158 by third place Brooktree of Hightstown. The Nassau team also won the dual meet trophy with a perfect record of 8-0.

Nassau's head coach, Bruce Nystrom, attributed his team's success to the fact that swimming lessons, available to all club members, are taught by the swim team coaches, so that being on the team is a natural and positive step after learning to swim.

The PASDA is made up of 20 teams ranging geographically from Flemington to Bordentown divided into four divisions according to their strength. In Division I Stony Brook came in fourth with 87 points. The only area team in Division II was Sourland from Montgomery township which placed third with 86 points, in Division III Penn Brook was first with 161, Community Park second with 147 and Bedens Brook third with 120. In Division IV Hopewell was fourth with 11 points.

The diving championships were held July 26 and 27 at the Penn Brook pool near Pennington, and the swimming championships July 28, 29 and 30 at Stony Brook near Hopewell. In the swimming events alone there were more than 1,300 individual entries, and a few events had as many as 65 contestants. From these there were six finalists in each event who competed on the last day. In the course of the 84 events, twenty-six new records were set.

Outstanding swimmer trophies were awarded to Kim Lambert of Brooktree who won three individual events, the open 100 yard freestyle, the 17-u freestyle and 17-u backstroke as well as helping her 17-u freestyle relay to set a new record, and to Mike Smith of Penn Brook who won the 14-u individual medley, the 14-u backstroke and the 14-u butterfly, setting new records in the last two.

From the local clubs a number of other outstanding performers emerged including four triple winners: Jennifer Wagner from Penn Brook who won the 10-u diving, the 12-u open diving, and the 10-u backstroke, Ann Wawczak from Nassau in the 10-u individual medley where she set a new record, 10-u freestyle and 10-u breastroke, Andy Smith from Penn Brook in 12-u individual medley, 12-u freestyle and 12-u butterfly, and Chip Hector of Community Park who broke records in the 8-u freestyle and backstroke and also won the 8-u breaststroke.

Winning two events were Val Van Horn of Nassau in 14-u individual medley and butterfly who also came in second in 14-u freestyle and fourth in the open 100 freestyle, Peter Smith of Nassau who broke the 8-u individual medley record and won the 8-u butterfly while placing fourth in the 8-u freestyle, Mike McKenna of Stony Brook winning the 17-u freestyle and breaststroke and placing third in the 17-u individual medley, and Sue Danielson of Nassau who won the 14-u freestyle and backstroke and placed fifth in the 17-u butterfly.

Other area individual winners were Susan Lofgren of Community Park who won the 8-u diving and also placed fifth in the 10-u diving and fourth in the 8-u individual medley, Lynn Harkness of Penn Brook who placed first in the 12-u freestyle, third in the 12-u individual medleyand fourth in the 12-u butterfly, Guy Dorgan from Community Park who won the 17-u individual medley and finished second in both the 17-u freestyle and butterfly and third in the open 100 yard freestyle, Paul Sally of Nassau who won the 12-u breaststroke and finished second in the 12-u freestyle and butterfly.

Also, Sandy Danielson of Nassau who won the 10-u butterfly and placed third in the 10-u backstroke, Susanne Fischer, also from Nassau, who won the 14-u breaststroke and was fourth in the 14-u butterfly, Judy Wolfson from Community Park who set a record in the 17-u breaststroke and was second in the 17-u individual medley, and Andy O'Hara of Bedens Brook who broke the open 100 yard freestyle record.

BANQUET PLANNED

For Adults' Softball. The Princeton adult men's and women's softball leagues will hold a banquet Saturday, August 14, at 7:30 in the Elks Club, Rnute 518, Blawenburg.

Players, their families, and friends are invited. For ticket information call Ray Weihaus, 924-1609, or Bernie DeVito, 924-0941.

WOMEN'S SEASON ENDS

Conte's, Koffee Kup Vie. The Princeton Recreation Department's women's softball league, with no exaggeration the biggest live attraction in town on Tuesday and Thursday evenings this summer, has wrapped up its season. First place Conte's and second place Koffee Kup faced each other in the championship series. The first game was won by Koffee Kup, 9-8; the second game was Conte's, 21-16; and the deciding game was scheduled for Tuesday night.

Organized by Denise King of the recreation department, the league's games attracted as many as 500 spectators toward the end of the season.

Conte's took first place the final week when Koffee Kup was upset by Ivy Inn, 15-10. With a 4-3 lead against Zephyr's in the fourth inning, Conte's received news of the upset by Ivy Inn. Conte's was momentarily rattled, but erupted in the sixth inning for a 14-3 win.

Princeton Medical Center won its final match against Pizza Palace, 14-9. Kingston Wine beat Woman's Place, 14-9, due to the managerial strategy of Bernie DiVito. The fourth place standing rested on a protest game between Zephyr's and Woman's Place

Allaire and Chace Win Golf at Springdale

Ralph "Bud" Allaire Jr. and Dean Chace won the 1976 Governors' Cup Tournament at Springdale Golf Club when they defeated Harold Crane and Jim Litvack in the finals, 3 and 2.

Victors last six years ago, this pair has now won the trophy three times, the only team to capture it more than once. They succeed Kester Pierson and Bill Paine, last year's champions.

In the 18-hole final, Allaire and Chase won the fourth hole to lead for the first time and were three up at the turn. They never trailed in the match.

In the opening round, after 16 teams qualified with each player using his full handicap, the 1976 winners eliminated Stu Willson and Fred Gallagher, 5 and 4. They reached the semi-finals with a 1 up decision over Kemp Roll and Dick Schranz. A 2-and-1 triumph over Ken Dawes and Jack Mudge then put them in the championship round.

Two Close Matches. Crane and Litvack took their first match from Jack McCarthy and Jack Childress, 1 up, and then edged Les Robbins and Arne Booth by the same score. Prior to meeting Chace and Allaire, they won, 4 and 3, from Ross Shrader and Dave Savage.

In other matches, Dick Bradley and Don Ehret, the medalists with a 56, were beaten in their first match by Bob Lewis and Alan Frank, Jr. The latter pair were eliminated in the quarter-finals by Dawes and Mudge, 1 up.

Jack Petrone and Jack Sweeney were losers on the final green to Dawes and Mudge, while on the same day, Frank Crecca and Dick Querns were also eliminated on the 18th by Roll and Schrantz. Booth and Robbins won in the first round over Fritz Blaicher and Pat Rulon-Miller, while Shrader and Savage took a first-round match from Alan Poole and Bill Turgeon, 3 and 2, and reached the semi-finals with an extra-hole triumph over Mike Curtin and Jim McKinnon. The latter pair won their first-round match, 2 and 1, from Bill Middlebrook and Bill Starks.

CENTER, CONTE'S TIED

In Adult Softball. With five games remaining for each team, Conte's and Center Sports continue to hold a first place tie in the Princeton Recreation Adult Softball League. The two clubs will play each other twice before the season comes to an end.

Conte's and Center Sports played two games each last week, both teams winning one and losing one. Conte's scored eight early runs, then coasted to a 9-8 win over Grover Taxi For the winners, Dick Willever and Don Witt each had three for three nights and both hit homeruns. Grover's Ed Coldren homered in a losing cause.

A late inning three-run rally by Andy's Tavern halted Conte's later in the week 6-4. John Gondioso had two hits and two RBIs for Andy's. Joe Chapman and Don Witt homered for Conte's.

Center Sports had no trouble disposing of P.M.C., 18-0. The winners scored seven times in their half of the seventh inning. Jamie Petrone homered for Center, while P.M.C.'s Vince O'Brien collected three hits.

In Center's second game, C. Sq. C. scored seven runs in the fourth inning en route to a 10-6 win. For C. Sq. C., Felix Brown and Keith Marshall homered, and Tony Bailey stroked three hits. Mario DeVincenzi had four hits and Brendon Layton homered for Center.

PETRONE TO PETRONE TO PETRONE: Three members of the Center Sports team in the Princeton Adult Softball League are the Petrone brothers. Jeff (left) is an infielder, Jamie (center) plays first base and Jack is an outfielder. Center Sports is owned by their father, Jack Petrone Sr. who wes a standout pleyer himself in school and in the Army.

Nine Errors. In other games, C. Sq. C. blasted Plainsboro Package Store, 26-6, as the losers committed nine errors. Keith Marshall and Darryl Boone homered for C. Sq. C. Mike Tenny's last inning two-run homer gave P.M.C. its first win of the season, 10-9, over Plainsboro Package Store.

STAATS MAINTAINS LEAD

In Mercer Softball. Staats E & G failed to come up with the big runs in their first of two big confrontations with Zip's Steak House last Wednesday evening in Mercer County softball league action. Zip's outlasted Staats by scoring two runs in the last of the 11th to forge a 10-9 victory before a packed house at Central Park.

Staats held a 8-3 lead going into the last of the sixth inning, but Zips exploded for five runs to force the game into extra innings. Staats turned back numerous scoring threats for four innings as fine overall defense and great pitching by Frank Cawley temporarily silenced the Zips line-up.

With Friday evening's game against Zips rained out, Staats rebounded Sunday by taking a doubleheader from Ivy Inn. Staats outlasted Ivy in the first contest, 19-14, as John Pesce and Dave Alton contributed seven hits and seven RBIs collectively. Hot bats for Ivy were held by Tony Perone, Walt Brower, and Billy McQuade.

In the second game, Staats relied on a three-run rally in the last of the seventh inning to tie the score, before pushing across two runs needed for victory in the eighth. Clutch hitting by Tom Devito and Wes Cawley set the stage for the victory. Tony Boccanfuso provided the long ball for Ivy while McQuade, Perone, and Brower continued to hit well in the second game for Ivy Inn.

With Zips having to play both Ivy Inn and Hillbilly Hall and Staats having to play the latter, the Mercer County Major League Championship is still undecided. Friday's make-up game between Staats and Zips could be the last game of the season; and could determine the title.

LOCAL 380 TOPS POST 76

In PYBA Playoffs. For the first time in the history of the league, the Princeton Youth Baseball Association required a playoff game to determine its champion. U.A. Local 380, which had won eight of its last ten games to tie Post 76, won the game, 1-0, in a most anti-climactic fashion.

The pennant was the first for coach Bernie Miller's Local 380. Post 76, which lost the title on a fluke play in the last inning, has been at or near the top every year.

Winning pitcher Greg Lieberman scattered five hits andstruck out 12 in gaining the victory, while loser Clark Lippincott looked just as impressive, giving up only three hits and fanning 11.

Post 76 threatened in the first inning, as Terry Phox tripled with one out. But he was left stranded as Lieberman pitched his way out of the jam. Lieberman found himself confronted with similar situations in the second and fourth innings, but again emerged unscathed.

In the top of the last inning, U.A. Local 380 loaded the bases as Scott Roney reached on an error, Lieberman walked, and Mike Cifelli bunted safely. Then, with two out and two strikes on batter Chris Cassell, a catcher's interference was called as Cassell swung and his bat struck the glove of the Post 76 catcher. This allowed Cassell to take first base and scored Roney, giving them the championship.

Cifelli, Roney, and Josh Miller had three hits for Local 380. Post 76 led by Mickey Carnevale, who had two hits and Bruce O'Neill, and Lippincott.

HOPEWELL'S FAMOUS "PURPLE HOUSE"!

How often have you stopped before it...to wonder and admire? At a certain season when the tulips are abloom, then the dogwood, soon the mimosa! It's a delight...standing proud in all its pure Victorian splendor. The gaiety and warmth follow one inside where the majestic colour is framed by latticed woodwork and chairrails all beautifully lit by wrought iron carriage lamps and crystal chandeliers! Brought in just five years to this perfect vision by its creative and charming owners, who must now seek new challenges.

Of course, after the poetry, all the amenities! All modern conveniences! A new wing octagonal in shape blends perfectly with the original house to provide a sunny garden room with Franklin stove.

Did you ever think it could be yours?

Please call for an appointment with a Henderson agent if you are seriously interested in this unique offering.

Sunny dining room and a super kitchen. Big, big laundry room. We think it's one of the prettiest houses in Princeton! $155,000

1700's Jersey farmhouse near Hopewell. The owner put it very succinctly when he said to us, "This house is love." All the old floors, fireplaces, window frames and mouldings have been lovingly restored and maintained. The living room, dining room and master bedroom all have working fireplaces. There are three more bedrooms and a modern kitchen. Wonderful outbuildings. Garage workshop, playhouse, etc., 7.16 private rolling acres. A lovely spot. $140,000

Behind a white picket fence, surrounded by handsome old trees in an appealing old house with high ceilings and loads of room. Entrance hall, living room, large dining room, big modern kitchen and full bath. On the second floor are four bedrooms and a bath. The third floor is a super large room. Down the garden path at the back is an in-ground pool, fenced for complete privacy. $78,500

Strikingly handsome three-story Georgian Colonial. Beautifully maintained and fastidiously decorated. From the elegant foyer the eyes can follow its graceful circular stairway up to the domed skylight. Living room, library solarium, study, dining room, pantry, new kitchen and breakfast room. The master suite contains a large bedroom with fireplace, study, dressing room and bath. There are four additional master bedrooms and four baths. High ceilings, six fireplaces, a game room and servants wing. This is an outstanding Princeton in-town property. $250,000

Handsome White Brick Colonial in a superbly convenient in-town location. The house is elegant and yet warm and welcoming. The marble floored back to front hall is elegant, as is the beautiful living room, dining room and handsome study (all with fireplaces from the famous old Ritz Hotel). The large warmly-panelled family room, with raised hearth and kitchen, are geared for pleasant informal living. The master bedroom has a fireplace, dressing room and large bath. The four additional bedrooms and two baths (one is set up for an upstairs laundry), make the house especially attractive for a sizable family. Marquand Park appears to be part of the spacious beautiful back garden. $160,000

Detecting an allergy is not always a simple matter, even for the physician, and self-diagnosis is likely to result in error. Fortunately, the family physician or the allergist has at his disposal the means for determining whether or not an allergy is present, the substances responsible for the allergy, and effective means for relief or curing the condition. Early treatment for allergies is important because of the danger of development of more severe types of allergic reactions.
